

QUEENS BAR GUIDE

Queens Beer Book Bars

By Catherine Wolinski || @beeraffair

The following bars are featured in the 2015 Queens Beer Book, a passport to the craft beer scene featuring 30 beers at 30 bars for $30 (plus a few spares.) Even if you don't have a Beer Book, use this guide to find your new favorite drinking spot.

Julia's Beer & Wine Bar

818 Woodward Ave.

(Putnam and Cornelia)

Ridgewood

(917) 909-1314

Of the many gems unearthing in the Queens beer scene, Julia's brings a unique sparkle to Ridgewood. Started by the owners of cozy neighborhood coffee shop, Norma's, this checkered-floor, board game-stacked Alice in Wonderland of a bar meets the need for hyper-local beer, New York State wines, New York cheese plates, and snacks made in-house, like crackers and turnovers.

Managing partner, William Reter is an avid homebrewer, and features a rotating NYC beer on draft that at times can be a collaboration between himself and a nearby brewer. The at-present singular tap selection is supplemented with regional bottles, best enjoyed during drink and draws, local art shows, Sunday brunch or a midday sit solo.
